(1) BACKGROUND:

Despite the clear benefits of basic education, more than 10 million primary school aged children in Nigeria are currently out of school. Millions of children are not learning the skills they need to fully participate in the economy, to advocate for themselves and to improve their lives. The current situation lowers the potential of not only individual children but of the society. In 2018-2019, UNICEF Nigeria is giving life to a local campaign 'Every Child in School'. The campaign advocates for better and wider access to basic education in Nigeria and it asks all Nigerians, especially the young people, to call on the government to invest more in education and make education a priority, so that the next generation has a better chance to thrive.

The campaign ends in mid-February 2019 and will be followed up with an end-line research to assess its impact. The research results and analysis, as well as recommendations for future campaigns, will be compiled into a comprehensive report. The report is likely to be approximately 100 pages long.
